

How a contractor buys from you

Seven steps, from the moment he runs out of liner to the moment he orders again. Read it left to right. The purple step is where the sale is won or lost.

Mike

Runs a small lining crew. Wants supply and support, fast.

Dave

New to CIPP and growing. Wants a clear place to start.

DISCOVER

He realises he needs something

EVALUATE

He checks whether you have it

BUY

He asks the price and orders

KEEP

He comes back

STEP 1

Need arises

"I have a job booked and I am short on liner."

Checks what is left on the truck.

YOUR SITE

Your name is the one he remembers.

STEP 2

Search

"Who sells this, and who has it in stock?"

Searches the product name, or asks another contractor.

YOUR SITE

Google shows you, not a competitor.

STEP 3

Lands on your site

"Do they carry my size? Do they also do installs?"

Looks at the home page for about five seconds.

YOUR SITE

"We supply contractors, we do not install" in the first three seconds.

STEP 4

Checks the details

"Will this fit my gear? Where are the specs?"

Opens product pages and looks for spec sheets.

YOUR SITE

Specs and safety sheets on every product page.

KEY MOMENT

STEP 5

Asks the price

"What does it cost, and can I get it this week?"

Calls you, or sends a quote request.

YOUR SITE

Short form. Name, company, phone. Your number on every screen.

STEP 6

Orders and collects

"When will it get here?"

Places the order, picks it up or takes the freight.

YOUR SITE

Clear pickup and freight information.

STEP 7

Comes back

"Who do I call when something goes wrong?"

Rings for help, books training, reorders.

YOUR SITE

Training dates, support, and an easy reorder.

Where you are losing him today

At step 3 the current site reads as though you install pipe yourself. A contractor who thinks you compete with him leaves before he ever reaches step 4, and you never hear from him. The new home page says "we supply contractors, we do not perform installations" three times before he scrolls. That one change is the biggest in the whole design.

What the new website does at each step

The same seven steps. On the left, what he is looking for. On the right, what the new site gives him so he does not go somewhere else.

STEP	WHAT HE WANTS	WHAT THE NEW SITE GIVES HIM
1 Need arises Discover	To remember who supplies him.	A site that looks like a real company, so your name is the one he remembers.
2 Search Discover	To find a supplier who has it today.	Every product on its own page, so when he types the product name, Google shows you and not a competitor.
3 Lands on your site Evaluate	To know in seconds if you are right for him.	The words "we supply contractors, we do not perform installations" sit at the top, so he never thinks you compete with him. A pipe size picker answers "do you carry my size" in one tap.
4 Checks the details Evaluate	Sizes, cure method, safety sheets.	Spec sheets, safety data and manuals attached to the product they belong to, so a crew can find them on a phone.
5 Asks the price Buy	A fast, human answer.	A short form asking only name, company and phone number, and your phone number on every single screen.
6 Orders and collects Buy	To know when it arrives.	Clear pickup and delivery information, and room to add online ordering later without rebuilding the site.
7 Comes back Keep	Help, training, and an easy reorder.	Training and demo dates, support contacts, and a question box that answers the common ones day or night.
